Not enough days off from work to catch all the art during Miami Art Week? You can get ahead of the crowds on Dec. 1 at the Progressive Brunch, hosted by 11 of Miami's top galleries located north of downtown. Highlights include the opening of the new Upper East Side by N'Namdi Contemporary (showing Robert Colescott drawings), Tomas Esson at Fredric Snitzer Gallery, Mette Tomerup at Emerson Dorsch, Eugenio Espinoza at Piero Atchugarry Gallery, the group show "Grounded" at Spinello Projects and "Dirty Words" (featuring work by Mark Flood and Sam Jablon) at Mindy Solomon Gallery.

10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Find a map and the full list of participating galleries at //progressiveartbrunch.com
